This article discusses the importance of the pedagogical skills and qualities of teachers in order to prepare high-level professionals in the country and elevate them to world standards to meet social development.

Keywords: pedagogy, the knowledge base of teaching, professional knowledge, pedagogical research, and the qualifications of an expert.

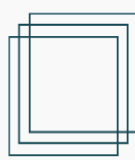

To assist individuals desiring to benefit the worldwide work of Jehovah's Witnesses through some form of charitable giving, a brochure entitled Charitable Planning to Benefit Kingdom Service Worldwide has been prepared.

(Matthew 24:14; 28:19, 20) Jehovah's Witnesses would be pleased to discuss these answers with you.

(Matthew 24:14; 28:19, 20) Today, strict requirements are imposed on the implementation of these functions. The evolution of technology and science, the rapid renewal, growth, and preparation of young people for the ever-changing future are also the most complex and honorable of the above-mentioned qualities .

The aforementioned characteristics of modern education - in many ways - also determine how important a teacher is.

The teacher is responsible for the education of a perfect generation, and hence needs to set an example not only for those around him with his spiritual and moral culture, but also to demonstrate his pedagogical skills and contribute to the responsible work of preparing qualified personnel as a mature teacher. Having a pedagogical skill is not only a place that ensures the effectiveness of teaching for a teacher but also enhances his or her reputation in society and creates respect for students. Organizing actions to improve professional skills will enable you to avoid mistakes made or made in the pedagogical hierarchy and to achieve success in dealing with students, colleagues, and parents.

"An expert who is a skilled craftsman of his profession, is highly civilized, has a deep knowledge of his own science, can analyze the fields of approach science well, and perfectly masters the methodology of training and teaching." From the essence of this definition, the content of the teacher's concept of the qualities of an expert pedagogical mouth can be explained as follows:

- High level of culture, high indicator of knowledge and intelligence.
- Perfect owner of knowledge of his subject.
- Knowledge in the field of science, such as pedagogy and psychology, and its ability to use them in its professional hierarchy.
- Perfect knowledge of the methodology of educational and educational work.

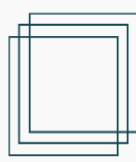

The pedagogical skill system consists of the following interconnected key components:

1. Obedience to the requirements of pedagogical humanitarianism.
2. Perfect knowledge of professional knowledge in relation to other subjects.
3. Having pedagogical skills.
4. Mastering the Secrets of Pedagogical Technology

Among all professions, the teaching profession is of special and important social importance. After all, the teacher is the heart of the younger generation, the architect of perfection, and the person who teaches young people. Today, it teaches young people the laws of nature, society, social life, prosperity, helps young people prepare for their work, master vocational secrets, and solves socio-economic situations that are important to society. This responsibility requires the teacher to be a skilled craftsman of his profession, to have an educational impact on students, and to become a skilled craftsman who finds ways to develop their interests, abilities, talents, beliefs and practical skills in every way. To assist individuals desiring to benefit the worldwide work of Jehovah's Witnesses through some form of charitable giving, a brochure entitled Charitable Planning to Benefit Kingdom Service Worldwide has been prepared.

1.	The purpose of the specialist's work	2.	Subject of Activity
3.	Expert activity tool	4.	Object of activity

A teacher who does not understand the essence of the pedagogical process and does not have deep respect for a student will not have the idea of ensuring the effectiveness of teaching and human perfection. First of all, the teacher himself needs to be able to set an example for his students or students. Only then will he be able to train mature people. The task of the pedagogical process is to educate, educate, and develop and to improve a teacher's work. The activities of teachers are a means of action of the pedagogical process.

The educational community, which is the objects of the pedagogical circuit, is responsible for the educational and educational activities of the student, the student group, and the individual student— parents, teachers, educators, the classroom, the pedagogical community— and they carry out their educational and educational activities on the basis of society. The effectiveness of the teacher's pedagogical hierarchy is determined by how much he can apply his or her skills, that is, the knowledge he has acquired in his or her life and practical hierarchy. The system of abilities needed to make teachers' pedagogical activities effective:
